

OSTM261 : Records and Information Management

Introduction to the basic principles of alphabetic, numeric, geographic and subject methods of classifying and storing records. Planning, organizing and controlling the creations, protection, use, storage and disposition of records.

Credits 3

Lecture Hours 3

Lab/Clinical/Field Study Hours 0

Semester Offered

Fall